86.	"Hi Anna, this is Haris from SalesDaily. I know cold calls aren't always welcome, but this one might actually help—can I share how?"
87.	"Hey Ben, this is Haris from SalesDaily. Does that name ring a bell?" If they say yes, respond with a light joke. If no, move on to your pitch.
88.	"Hi Lisa, this is Haris from SalesDaily. I believe what we're doing at SalesDaily could save your team time on [specific task]. Got 30 seconds?"
89.	"Hey Paul, this is Haris from SalesDaily. If this isn't the most fun call you get today, I'll refund your time. Got 30 seconds?"
90.	"Hi Lisa, it's Haris from SalesDaily. I bet you didn't wake up hoping for a cold call today, right? Can I make this one useful?"
91.	"Hi Alex, this is Haris from SalesDaily. Would it be crazy to ask for just 30 seconds of your time?"
92.	"Hey David, it's Haris from SalesDaily. I just saw [specific news about their industry]. Is that impacting your strategy?"
93.	"Hi Sarah, this is Haris from SalesDaily. Real quick—what's been your biggest headache at work this week?"
94.	"Hi Paul, this is Haris from SalesDaily. Before you hang up—what's one thing you hate about [specific process]?"
95.	"Hi Emma, this is Haris from SalesDaily. Let's make a deal: I give you a reason not to hang up, and you give me 30 seconds. Deal?"
96.	"Hey Marie, this is Haris from SalesDaily. Quick question—did I catch you mid-coffee or mid-chaos?"
97.	"Hi Emma, this is Haris from SalesDaily. This is a cold call, but I think it's one worth your time. Can I explain why?"
98.	"Hi Emma, this is Haris from SalesDaily. Many leaders say [specific issue] keeps them up at night—what's been keeping you up?"
99.	"Hi Jim, this is Haris—if I told you this was a cold call, would you rather throw your phone out the window or give me 30 seconds to explain what it's about?"
100.	"Hi [Name], I got your number from [Referrer's Name], who mentioned you might be interested in [solving a problem]."
